MERCILITE

Let us learn from the past to profit by the present, and from the present to live better for the future." Wordsworth "Education", as stated in the philosophy of our school, "is the organized development of all powers of a person, moral, intellectual, physical, and social, by and for their individual social uses, and directed towards the union of these activities with their Creator as their final end." To give substance to this philosophy, the faculty has organized an advanced curriculum, integrating theory with clinical experience, in order to assist the student to achieve her goal -- to become a professional nurse.

The desired results of this educational program is the mature Christian nurse who, through participation in this planned program of study and clinical experience, acquires the basic knowledge, principles and skills in order to function effectively as a nurse. With experience she increases her ability to plan and execute comprehensive nursing care. As a member of the health team she develops an interest not only in the care and rehabilitation of the sick, but, also, the preservation and promotion of health in the community. She acquaints herself with the available resources in the community in order to communicate this knowledge to others. She becomes capable of self-direction and is prepared to begin her position as a professional nurse.

Ideally, the experience that is a nursing education should be a broadening and awakening one. It should provide us with opportunities not only to perfect our nursing abilities, but also to progress spiritually, and intellectually and to become dynamic members of society.

The responsibility to avail oneself of these opportunities lies within the student, and it is to the student that we direct this question:

We who have lived and worked among scholars and physicians who have spent their lives in learning, should ourselves be more receptive to ideas, more eager to learn. The instructors of psychology, sociology, theology, who, dedicated to seeking knowledge and teaching what they have learned, exposed our youthful eyes and ears to fresh unexplored concepts and raised our thoughts above the passing pleasures of adolescence to the lasting questions of mind and soul.

Anything which diverts one from his small circle of problems and selfish interests is good. If we have been stimulated enough so that we have looked beyond ourselves into the bewildering process of life itself, then our years at Mercy have been well spent. Perhaps

We learn through books, of course, but at the same time we must not devalue the experience of being alone with an idea - when we delve into the depths of our souls to grasp answers previously beyond our reach.

And so, if we have been a Mercy student for three years and neither feared nor yawned at the challenge to rise above the mediocrity of this swirling, awesome world to become more knowledgeable and truly dynamic persons, then we have not failed Mercy or ourselves.

"Next To God, Thy Parents" -Penn

All through our lives you have been our symbol of maturity. A personification of what we each hoped to become. You guided, counseled, prodded, and scolded to help us to achieve our goals. You gave us your support in whatever we attempted.

And so, in lieu of our appreciation we dedicate this the 1966 MERCILITE to you, our parents.

Dedication

The Perfect Prayer

Lord, make me an instrument of Thy peace; where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy.

Grant that I may not seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood, as to understand, to be loved as to love; for it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

Prayer of St. Francis of Assisi

"The highest function of the teacher consists not so much in imparting knowledge as in stimulating the pupil in its love and pursuits."

PSYCHIATRY

During the latter part of our junior year, or as seniors, we went in small groups to Louisville, Kentucky, for our thirteen-week psychiatric experience at Our Lady Of Peace Hospital. And it was indeed an experience!

We gained an appreciation of the psychiatric patient and of the implications of mental illness on the patient, his family and the community. We were assisted in understanding our own emotions, attitudes, and ideals and how they influence our personalities and our interactions with others. Therapeutic use of self became our chief principle as we developed understanding and skill in the use of techniques conducive to satisfactory nurse-patient relationships.

And then there was the fun of it all. We lived with students from schools in Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana, and Ohio. Evenings were filled with jam sessions and happy bridge parties, dance, song, and laughter at the Z-Bar, Highland Inn, and Office Lounge. We all couldn't be there for the Derby, but many of us did get a chance to attend the races at Churchill Downs. We wereoverwhelmed with the beauty of Louisville and spent many delightful hours at Iroquois, Cherokee, and Seneca Parks.

Momentary and lasting friendships were engendered with our fellow students, and when it came time to leave our hearts were heavy.

As we drove away, we could not bring ourselves to look back, for the last time, at the Maria Hall that we had grown to love.

"Memory is a master painter, lining indelible pictures upon the mind's canvas. Time pilfers our years, our hopes, even our griefs. But it cannot cross the threshold that leads to the domain of Memory. Here we resuscitate the past. Here we gather once more water lilies that died, but came to life again in the pool of remembrance."

-ANOTHER YEAR BEGINS-PROBIE WEEK

The arrival of the new freshmen in early September marked the beginning of another year at Mercy. A caravan of over-loaded station wagons brought the anxious new arrivals and ALL their possessions to this strange new place which was to become home for the next three years.

They came, seemingly, in droves, monopolizing the elevators and disrupting the peace that was Mercy for one short month.

It was only after these new arrivals had "made the scene" that the seniors really began to feel their mightiness and the juniors ascended into the ranks of the upperclassmen. As if this first week were not traumatic enough for the poor freshmen, the seniors added to their harrassment by organizing and enforcing Probie Week. Seniority permitted them to order the Probies to heed to their every unreasonable whim---Who will ever forget having to sing "How Green I Am" while kneeling reverently before the seniors?

At the end of this exhausting week, the freshmen were humiliated and disgusted and had already begun making plans for the Probie Week they would one day organize.

CAPPING and BANDING CEREMONIES

Two of the most meaningful and impressive ceremonies of the year were the capping and banding ceremonies.

The banding ceremony, at which juniors and seniors were given distinction by receiving their burgundy and blue bands respectively, was part of the Honors Convocation held a few weeks preceding the arrival of the freshmen. The capping ceremony was held shortly thereafter. The freshmen proudly received their first caps and recited the Florence Nightingale pledge in the presence of the Faculty and Student Body.

HALLOWEEN

78-9199

October always ushers in party time for Mercy students. The annual Halloween Party, sponsored by the Freshman Class, was well-equipped with its share of ghosts, grave diggers, and spooks all adding to the fun and success of the event.

THANKSGIVING

Then came November and the Thanksgiving Party, where, this year, light refreshments were served bouffet style.

Music was provided by alocal orchestra for the gala affair; an art exhibit on display added to the air of festivity.

WINTER

Come, Winter, with thine angry howl And raging bend the naked tree: Thy gloom will soothe my cheerless soul, When nature all is sad like me.

---Robert Burns

CHRISTMAS

A delicious turkey dinner, Santa's presents, and the pleasure of caroling ---these were all part of the annual Christmas Banquet given by the Faculty several nights before the students left for the holidays. It was a happy and memorable occasion for all --- even for those on Psychiatric affiliation, who had their own Christmas party with a surprise package of goodies from Sister Mary Elizabeth.

FROSH: THEIR FINEST HOUR

The freshmen, in their enthusiasm and originality, challenged the juniors and seniors to a basketball game at Hawthorne Center. It was undoubtedly the most funfilled event of the year! We played terrible ball, practically drove our beloved referees, Sister Mary Luke and Sister Mary Veronica, out of their minds and had the spectators in side-splitting laughter ----but, we had a ball!

"SOME ENCHANTED EVENING"

February the nineteenth became an enchanted evening as Mercy's auditorium was transformed into a grand ballroom for the annual Sweetheart Ball. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of five senior candidates vying for Sweetheart Queen. Of these, Hermina Lovelace received the crown and title.

Thanks to the enthusiasm and cooperation of the students, the dance stirred more than its usual attendance and was a trememdous success.

BITS OF CULTURE

Informative lectures were one of the new additions to the social calendar this past year. We were priviledged to hear from guest speakers on various topics, such as alcoholism, the Peace Corps, and marriage.

In addition, the School and its individual classes sponsored movies for the Student Body and the Sisters. Both the lectures and movies proved to be a source of interest and enjoyment.

SPRING FORMAL

One of the biggest springtime events is the Spring Formal, sponsored by the Freshman Class. The months and months of hard work seem to be forgotten as the students dance to such familiar themes as "Three Coins in a Fountain" and "Fly Me to the Moon."

RED FEZ PICNIC

Twice a year, there is a mass exodus of Mercy students, faculty, and housemothers to the Red Fez Club on the Catawba River. The bi-annual picnics are held in September and May. By the time May rolls around, pale-faced students are more than ready for a day of relaxation and play in the sun. A variety of activities---volleyball, swimming, and bridge games---are enjoyed throughout the day.

Tired, sick from overeating, and looking like lobsters, we return to the dorm at day's end. But---Oh, let's do it again soon.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

Last year, the Junior-Senior Banquet was held at the Luau House, where the guests enjoyed delicious Polynesian food and atmosphere that let us drift into an exotic and enchanted world. We were entertained by Dr. Louis Diamant and his dry, witty humor. It was a delightful evening and a perfect way to bid farewell to the Graduating Class of 1965.

GRADUATION

The last class to graduate under Mercy's former thirty-six month program marched solemnly into St. Patrick's Catholic Church on August 14, 1965. As each girl accepted her diploma from the Most Reverend Charles B. McLaughlin, Auxiliary Bishop of Raleigh, parents and friends observed with pride. An inspiring address by Rev. D. Edward Sullivan and the music provided by the Mercy Glee Club made the ceremony even more memorable for the twenty-six members of the Class of 1965. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament immediately followed the address to the graduates.

The commencement exercises were the culmination of several days of activity, which included the Baccalaureate Mass, the Honors Convocation, and a farewell dinner at the Hearth and Embers. Commencement is not merely the termination of three years of nurses' training, but the beginning of a longer and richer life made possible by our education and past experience. "It is a very easy thing to devise good laws; the difficulty is to make them effective. The great mistake is that of looking upon men as virtous, or thinking that they can be made so by laws; and consequently the greatest art of a politican is to render vices serviceable to the cause of virture."

---Bolingbroke

ORGANIZATIONS

Student Council

Guided by the leadership of Mrs. Kathleen Childs, president, the Student Council became a more effective and more meaningful organization this year. The most outstanding improvement in the student body association was the increase in school unity and spirit. Students from all classes worked together as a team on numerous student body projects, which helped to better inter-class and studentfaculty relationships. This is the basis for a functioning and effective student body.

Glee Club

For the past two years, Mercy's Glee Club has presented its annual spring concert under the guidance and direction of Mr. Richard Keasler. This year Mercy celebrated its sixtieth anniversary and, in conjunction with this, the Glee Club presented a unique selection of famous songs and themes of the past sixty years, including variations of both secular and religious music.

Santa Filomena

SANTA FILOMENA was first organized in the year 1943 at Duke University, and was adopted by the Class of '65 of Mercy School of Nursing as Senior Honor Society.

The organization is one of secrecy and fellowship, and has as its purposes the recognition of achievement and the promotion of leadership. A maximum of nine rising seniors are inducted into the society at a public tapping ceremony held in the spring. To qualify for membership in the society, the seniors chosen must have shown recognized qualities of leadership and contributed to the betterment of the School of Nursing. A scholastic record of eighty-eight or above must be maintained throughout the first two years of training.

Present society members are Claudia Pickett, Susan Bass, Pegge Elder, Janet Ducharme, and Jacqueline Bartels.

Library Committee

The Library Committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Bettie Bock, works throughout the year to provide readily-available resources to student nurses seeking not only reference material, but also fictional reading matter. It has a wide selection of up-to-date medical magazines and journals, and has had much success in arousing interest in authors and books, among them, the latest best sellers. This has been made possible not only through purchase, but also through inter-library loans.

Within the past year, the library has undergone extensive reorganization of its facilities. With the aid of the Library Committee, shelves have been rearranged, books repaired, and old periodicals have been removed in order to provide space for new selections. The Committee has also recently revised the card catalog.
